ALLIES TURN DOWN OFFER OF GERMAN

Declare New Reparations Proposals Submitted Today Unacceptable

MAY IMPOSE PENALTIES

Germans Protest to League Council Against Invasion By Allies.

London, March 7.—The German reparations proposals are not acceptable and do not justify postponement of the penalties to be inflicted by the Allies, it was officially announced following the final conference at 4:30 p. m. today.

The penalties laid down for German refusal to accept the demands of the Allies, included occupation of Drusseldorf, Duisberg and Ruhrort, in the Ruhr Valley, seizure of customs houses, the levying of a tax on German exports and establishment of a customs line along the Rhine.

Allied forces will march into the Ruhr Valley tonight if the Germans do not accede from their position, it was stated in French circles.

Germany today protested to the League of Nations against the menace of an Allied invasion. The protest was filed with the League Council. Foreign Minister Von Simons of Germany gave notice of this intention of appealing to the League when he said to the Allied representatives during their meeting today:

"Germany is not a member of the League, but she has signed the pact. I therefore appeal to the League, in the name of the German Government against the penalties by which we are menaced."

The German delegates made preparations to leave London tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

Von Simons based his appeal to the League on covenant articles defining the original rejection of the Allied demands made of settlement of disputes between League members and nonmembers.

French delegates obstinately opposed the German proposal of five annual payments, with an agreement to be arrived later on the total sum to be paid. Germany refused to consider the Entente suggestion of annual payments of 6,000,000,000 marks for 30 years.

The latest German proposals which the Allies rejected this afternoon, were submitted at a session held at noon, when Von Simons said Germany was unable to agree to the demands of the Allies.

WILSON TO RANK NEXT TO GRANT

First President in 50 Years to Have Two Full Terms

Over 100 Miles Per Hour in Every Event at Opening Meet, Fresno

California, Board Track.

Fresno, Cal.—The new one-mile board speedway here was certainly initiated in fitting style at the race carnival held Feb. 22 by the California Highway Patrolmen's Assn. Otto Walker not only achieved the heretofore impossible by averaging 100 miles an hour in a competitive race, but averaged better than this in every event.

A great crowd of spectators from all parts of the Sacramento Valley turned out to see the speed show, which was staged under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, on the city's new speedway. There was a large field of entries in all the events; Otto Walker, Wells Bennett, Roy Artley, Bill Church, Bob Newman, Shrimp Burns, Ray Cravens, Ray Weishaar, World's 200-Mile Champion, Ralph Hepburn, Jim Davis and Fred Ludlow, and a number of other nationally known riders participating.

Walter, riding a Harley-Davidson, took the fans completely off their feet when he made the one-mile trial in 33 and two fifth seconds, an average of 107.78 miles an hour. The International record for this distance but made on the Daytona Beach straightaway, is 34.7 seconds, an average of 104.74 m. p. h.

This being the first event to be run, there was much speculation as to the speed Walker would make in the following events, a 10-mile, 15-mile and 50-mile and when he was clocked in 29: 34 three-fifths for the 50 miles, an average of 101 and one half miles an hour, excitement simply ran wild, and a new and remarkable time had been set for this distance. Ralph Hepburn took second place in the 50-mile.

The time for the 10 mile race was 5:48; an average of 103:44 miles an hour. Otto Walker won first and Shrimp Burns came in second.

The average for the 15-mile event was better than the 10-mile. Walker was timed at 8:37 two-fifths, which is at the rate of 104:37 m. p. h. Hepburn won second.

SPIRITED MENS' MEETING DE-FINITE ACTION TAKEN SCHOOL INTEREST

The call sent out by the Principal of the schools condition was for a rally of the men of Bedford to study school conditions was answered by about eighty-five of the citizens. The men listened with great interest to the revelation of conditions that exist in the schools. After the Principal's address the meeting was given to general discussion. The men at once started a discussion as to how a remedy could be effected. The suggestion of the Principal for making the school a community center, and for introducing course of study that would really help the boys and girls and the town—a strong commercial department, manual training and domestic science, also a well organized library and reading room—were approved by the men, and after a discussion about procedure committees were elected to make a study of the financial problem involved.

The men present took a very active interest in the school situation. The needs of the school are seen by the parents and quick steps will be taken to bring about a change.

The borough is about $40,000 in debt which is the legal limit but the school finances are in a good shape. The school authorities claim that the school and borough indebtedness are separate. So a committee composed of Messrs. B. F. Madore, Esq., H. C. Heckerman, J. F. Russell, L. D. Blackwelder, John C. Lyon was appointed to institute an amicable suit in the court to determine whether the borough and school finances are considered separate or collective. If they are separate then the school board can go ahead and issue bonds for better school facilities. If they are to be taken collective no improvement can be made except by an increased millage. The Supreme Court will have to pass on the decision of the lower court before bonds can be issued so no final information will be available until next October.

BEER IS MEDICINE, SO PALMER RULES.

Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer as one of his last acts made a ruling that beer is medicine the same as wine and may be prescribed by a physician for a convalescent. The ruling was lost for a few days in the mass of rulings and has just turned up among the papers of the Attorney General's office. Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League was much dissatisfied with the turn of events. He says that the ruling will only make it easier for malcontents to evade the law. There will be a great many people now who will be sick, weak and sorrow who need beer for a tonic. The wets say that the ruling is a good one, and less whisky which is more harmful than beer will be used and so the argument goes.

A CORRECTION

Last week we stated that the mill which was burned at Cessna was owned by J. E. Blackburn and operated by his sons, Border and Jay. This was a mistake. Mr. Ed Blackburn had sold his entire interests to his sons who were operating entirely on their own behalf.

HARDING HITS AT A WORLD LEAGUE

Inaugural Address Declares for Absolute Independence of Action by America.

WANTS UNION FOR COUNSEL

Our Supreme Task, Says New President, Is Resumption of Our Onward, Normal Way, Recognizing the Changed Economic Order—Much Help to Be Expected From the Women.

SALIENT POINTS IN THE INAUGURAL

The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually, in itself proves the wisdom of the inherited policy on non-involvement in old world affairs. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine.

We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel.

If war is again forced upon us, I earnestly hope a way may be found which will unify our individual and collective strength and consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national defense.

We can reduce the abnormal expenditures, and we will. We can strike at war taxation, and we must.

Washington, March 4.—President Harding's inaugural address was as follows:

My countrymen—When one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen a world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken, and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable, and though both were threatened, we find them now secure, and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both.

Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity and we saw that effaced in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintained, the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great truths on which the founders wrought. We have seen civil, human and religious liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning, the world scoffed at our experiment, today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken, a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthened devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning, and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment.

Progress Proves Wisdom.

The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually, in itself proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in old world affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny, and jealously guarding our right to do so, we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine.

Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human hand for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation. We crave fellowship, and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America built on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not misunderstand nor the world misconstrue. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association for Counsel.

We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate a disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court, for the disposition of such justiciable questions as nations are agreed to submit thereto. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice and its hatred of war into recommended action, we are ready most heartily to unite, but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty. Since freedom impelled, and independence inspired, and nationality exalted, a world super-government is contrary to everything we cherish, and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness, it is sanctity. It is not aloofness, it is security. It is not suspicion of others, it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are.

Today better than ever before we know the aspirations of human kind, and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The unselfishness of these United States is a thing proven. Our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established. Our concern for preserved civilization has had its impassioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion of civilization. There will be no failure today or tomorrow.

Rests on Popular Will.

The success of our popular government rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate questioning of a suggested change of national policy, where internationality was to supersede nationality, we turned to a referendum of the American people. There was ample discussion, and there is a republic mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any seerly program likely to lessen the probability of war and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appraise international comity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world, we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization; and we hold a maintained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents.

Trade Ties Bind Closely.

We must understand the ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy, and none may receive except as he gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resources or our genius, notably on our own continent, where a galaxy of republics reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek expanded confidence.

Perhaps we can make no more helpful contribution by example than a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us devastated lands nor desolated cities, left no gaping wounds, no breast filled with hate, it did involve us in the delirium of expenditures, in expanded currency and credits, in unbalanced industry, in unspeakable waste and disturbed relationships. While it uncovered our portion of hateful selfishness at home, it also revealed the heart of America as sound and fearless and beating in confidence unflinching.

And if all we have riveted the gaze of all civilization to the unselfishness and the righteousness of representative democracy where our freedom never has made offensive warfare, never has sought territorial aggrandizement through force, never has turned to the arbitrament of arms until reason has been exhausted. When the governments of the earth shall have established a freedom like our own and shall have sanctioned the pursuit of peace as we have practiced it, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of international warfare will have been written.

Our Supreme Task.

Our supreme task is the resumption of our onward, normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow. I would like to hasten them, to lighten the spirit and add to the resolution with which we take up the task. Let me repeat for our nation, we shall give no people just cause to make war upon us, we hold no national prejudices, we entertain no spirit of revenge, we do not hate, we do not covet, we dream of no conquest nor boast of armed prowess.

If, despite this attitude, war is again forced upon us, I earnestly hope a way may be found which will unify our individual and collective strength and consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national

R. W. Grabill, Railroad Ave., says: "For some time I was troubled with my kidneys. There were severe pains in my back and on getting up in the morning I would ache all over. I had had headaches too. I started the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and soon all the headaches and pains in my back went away and I felt better in every way. ### VARIETIES OF COURAGE

"KERSMITH is an awful coward," said the retired merchant. "He hasn't as much spunk as a chipmunk. This morning I saw a man half his size twist his nose, and he never offered to defend himself. He trembled all over and was covered with a cold sweat."

"And yet, under other circumstances, Kersmith might show all kinds of courage," said the hotel-keeper. "It isn't safe to jump to conclusions about such things. A woman will climb a tree, and shriek for the police if she sees a mouse, and if a real peril comes along, she'll exhibit more courage in five minutes than the average man could dig up in a hundred years."

"There are scores of different kinds of courage in this world, and you can't expect one man to have them all. A man may tremble and cringe when threatened with physical violence, and yet stand up serene and magnificent when the assessor comes to the door, and there's nothing finer than that sort of moral courage. "There used to be a blacksmith in this town who had a wide reputation as a fire eater. He wasn't afraid of anything, people said. If he heard of a promising bruiser anywhere in the countryside, he couldn't rest until he had mixed things with him. And he didn't ask for purses or other inducements. He engaged in combat just because he loved it, and was happiest when his nose was knocked to one side, and his eyes were bugged up so that he couldn't see whether he was going or coming. He acted the hero on several occasions, rescuing people from burning buildings, and saving gents who were drowning and his nerve became a byword. "Well, in the fullness of time his teeth went wrong and his head swelled up until it looked like a squash. He bought about a million things at the drug store, and they wouldn't relieve the pain. The doctor told him he could have his sufferings ended in five minutes by going to the dentist's, but that idea turned him faint. At last he had to go, and the dentist told me he never saw such a doggone coward. That invincible blacksmith just had to be lifted into the operating chair, and as often as he could get his breath, he yelled. "The dentist's chair takes the starch out of many a brave man. I used to have to frequent it a good deal before I bought these hand-made tortoiseshell teeth, and I saw some moving sights when I was seated in the waiting room. Women would come in there as calm and cool as though they had just stepped in for a dish of ice cream. I have seen a girl graduate sit chatting comfortably until her turn came, and then she'd step into the chamber of horrors without turning a hair; and then some big policeman, who'd think nothing of fighting a revolver duel in the dark with a burglar, would come into the waiting room as limp as a dishrag, sweating ice tea and groaning every time he drew a breath. "A man might easily get a lot of false ideas about courage in the dentist's waiting room. "That man Kersmith, who stood and permitted a smaller man to twist his nose, has a sort of courage I'd give him a lot to own. I've always wished I could make public speeches. I've a lot of pent-up eloquence inside of me that ought to be turned loose for the edification and instruction of the people. But every time I'm called upon for a few timely remarks, I'm scared stiff, and can't say a blamed word. I just gurgle and splutter like a sunstruck lunatic, and hate myself for three weeks after it. "But when Kersmith is called, he rises without a tremor, and smiles sweetly upon the audience, and goes ahead saying what he has to say as though in his own arm chair by his fire-side. I'd be willing to have my nose and ears twisted several times to have his courage."

MRS ALICE GRESHAM DODD, mother of first American soldier killed in France, who gave entire credit for recovery of her health to the well-known medicine, Tanlac

The following remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, the mother of Corporal Jas. B. Gresham, who was the first American soldier killed in the Gresham Memorial Home, which was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana as an evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son.

The shock of her son's death resulted in a serious breakdown in Mrs. Dodd's health, but every one will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. Mrs. Dodd gives the entire credit for her recovery to the celebrated medicine, Tanlac.

She said "After my dear boy's death I had a general breakdown in health. At first it was just indigestion. My food would upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully. I also had rheumatism with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms and at times I would suffer greatly, and my joints would become swollen and stiff. I was hardly able to do but very little about the house and at times could not even cook a meal. I became very nervous and restless and at night would lie awake for hours. "A friend of mine advised me to try Tanlac. I am glad I did for it proved to be the best medicine I had ever taken. It soon gave me a splendid appetite and relieved me entirely of indigestion. My rheumatism also disappeared and I am now able to do my house-work with the greatest ease. My nerves are steady and strong. I sleep well at nights and my health is better than in years. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me. "Tanalac is sold in Bedford by all leading druggists—adv"

FINISH OFF FEEDERS EARLY

No Class of Cattle Yet Produced More Suitable for Market Demands Than Baby Beef.

Feeders show an increasing tendency toward finishing off their beef cattle at younger ages. In general this tendency is created by two causes: First, consumers are demanding small, high-quality cuts of meat; second, the cost of producing beef, due to advance in land values, feeds, labor and taxes, has increased to such an extent that feeders and breeders can seldom hold their cattle to advanced ages at a profit. General conditions in the past few years have indicated that no class of beef yet produced more nearly fulfills the requirements of both producer and consumer than baby beef, and the feeding of baby beef has been increasing in popularity.

In the early days of the cattle industry steers were kept on the range until from three to five years of age. The use of better bulls with consequent improvement in quality and early maturity of cattle, together with heavier grain feeding, has made it possible to put just as much flesh on the animals by the time they are from 16 to 20 months of age. With improvements in breeding and in feed-lot methods heavier cattle with more quality may in time be put on the market at even a younger age. The precise age at which steers should be marketed depends upon several conditions which must be determined by the individual feeder.

Chilean Nitrate Fields.

The nitrate fields, the principal source of Chile's wealth, are limited to a narrow strip of arid desert located on the eastern slope of the coastal range, west of the cordillera of the Andes, at an altitude of from 2,000 to 5,000 feet above sea level, and inland a distance varying from 16 miles in the northern part of the zone to 90 miles in the southern part.

PEPTO-MANGAN MAKES RED BLOOD

Sold by druggists in liquid and tablet form—both the same in medicinal quality

When your child loses color, acts and talks without spirit, and does not play like other children, act quickly.

If the condition is not a deep-seated disease but merely due to poor blood, give Pepto-Mangan. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is just the tonic for pale, thin children whose blood needs rebuilding. It is a pleasant-tasting simple combination of exactly the ingredients that increase and enrich the blood.

Beneficial results show almost at once in brighter eyes, blooming cheeks, a sprightly step, and the whole system made more vigorous. Pepto-Mangan is obtainable in liquid or tablet form, whichever proves most convenient. Both forms possess identical medicinal qualities.

There is but one genuine Pepto-Mangan and that is "Gude's." Ask your druggist for "Gude's" and look for the name "Gude's" on the package. If it is not there, it is not Pepto-Mangan.—Advertisement

Good Weather is Ahead

Last month—about the time the Ground Hog was poking his head out of the hole to renew the ancient controversy about his prophetic ability—close observers of business conditions received an infinitely more trust-worthy forecast of good business weather ahead.

The size of one of the largest nationally circulated publications was increased from 115 to 148 pages to accommodate national advertisers who offer the public articles of every-day need.

This indicates returning confidence, and proves that business men are going after business with renewed energy.

Our patrons among local business men have always had confidence in this Institution to co-operate with them in their efforts to hasten the return of good business weather.

CHAMP CLARK LAID TO REST

Services at Grave Are Simple, There Being No Eulogies.

Bowling Green, Mo., March 7.—Champ Clark was laid at rest after a simple ceremony in the little mound came tery here today, on what would have been his seventy-first birthday anniversary. The Democratic leader was buried beside his father, John Hampton Clark and two of his children, Champ and Ann who died in infancy.

There was no funeral sermon at grave and the expression frequently was heard that it was a "democratic funeral" in keeping with the stalwart statesman's love of simplicity.

There was a funeral sermon at the grave. The exercises which consisted only of prayer, were conducted by the Reverend Robert S. Boyd, a nephew of Mrs. Clark, and pastor of a Kansas City Presbyterian church. Prayers also were offered by the Reverend R. C. Jarman and the Reverend George R. Hitchcock both of Bowling Green. In all the prayers were reference to Mr. Clark's honesty and force of character.

Before the services at the grave at the St. Louis committee headed by former Governor Gardner, and Congressman elect Hawes went to "Hanesvick" the Clark home to pay their respects to Mrs. Clark.

HAVE YOUR EYE EXAMINED BY MY METHOD.

I personally pay very careful attention to the proper fitting of a nose piece or bridge. I see that it has the exact shape and style to fit snugly to the one particular point on the crest of the nose so the pupil of the eye can exactly conform with the center or middle of the lens, and the object will then be deposited at the proper place on the Retina, and thereby your error in Refraction (will be corrected, and you will have a perfect vision or sight, and a pair of glasses that will harmonize with your face. The sight is often interfered with by disease of the Vital organs, "Creeping disease," of slow progress, the nerves which enter into the eyes, the upper and lower lids which control the muscular action, very often become impaired by disease, need to be recognized and properly treated. All these are carefully looked after by me with the Ophthalmoscope, and by Urinary analysis, when necessary, and my simple and most effective method of examining the Eye for Glasses.

Do YOU Need a Tonic?

Oil City, Pa.—"I can praise Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery most highly as a tonic. My husband was just about down and out; he had absolutely no strength and we thought he was in for a sick spell when 'Golden Medical Discovery' was recommended to him some years ago. The first few doses started him gaining in health and he was just as well as could be within a month or so. Since that time whenever he needs a tonic he does not hesitate in getting Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and he also recommends it to his friends. And Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a safe and reliable to use whenever a laxative is needed. I have taken these 'Pellets' and have given them to every member of my family and I have never known them to give any but the best results."—MRS. MARGARET BRADLEY, 105 Walnut Street. All druggists.

Education. By science constant appeal is made to individual reason. Its truths are not accepted upon authority alone; but all are at liberty to test them; nay, in many cases, the pupil is required to think out his own conclusions. Every step in a scientific conclusion is submitted to his judgment. He is not asked to admit it without seeing it to be true. And the trust in his own powers thus produced is further increased by the constancy with which nature justifies his conclusions when they are correctly drawn. From all which there flows that independence which is a most valuable element in character.—Herbert Spencer.

FIFTY-FIFTY

By DOROTHY O. GRAVES.

(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The wealthiest man sighed. He felt very much alone. Old Scout, his thoroughbred aide-de-camp, had died that morning, and the world in consequence seemed very thin and much apart from an old and wealthy man.

He was aroused by the respectful knocking of his office boy.

"Good morning, Tom," the wealthiest man greeted the boy.

"Top of the mornin' to ye, yer honor."

The wealthiest man smiled. "Why do you call me that, Tom?"

The boy blushed and twisted his fingers in his coat but his eyes never wavered. "Because, sir," he stressed the sir, "I forgot, sir."

"Forgot what, Tom?"

"Yer honor."

The old man pondered and shook his head. "I don't understand yet, my boy. Tell me again."

The boy grew redder under his freckles, but he stood stanch. "It's a game, sir."

"Oh, yes, I see." The man twisted the crystal vase between his thumb and forefinger. He watched the heavy blossom tilt back and forth while he questioned further. "And if I told you I liked games, Tom, would you let me play, too?"

The wealthiest man grasped the vase in his entire palm.

The slender crystal stem cracked and broke. A stream of water trickled over the papers on the desk and mingled with a drop of red blood from the wealthiest man's hand. The white orchid seemingly shuddered and withered. Its delicate petals turned gray and crumpled. It faded into an ash and was gone.

The boy's face was white and awed. He looked apprehensively at the man.

"Oh, sir . . ." he said, his voice weak.

"It's gone, Tom." The man spoke lightly.

"Yep, like death, sir."

"Yes, like death, Tom, or dreams."

"Oh, no, yer honor, oh no, sir, I mean; dreams they ain't like that. If ye believe in 'em and put faith in 'em they're bound, sir, bound to come true."

"And why do you think so, Tom?"

"Me mother, she says so, yer—sir, I mean."

"Could you get into college, Tom?" asked the wealthiest man. "It's awfully hard. There's exams and schooling—"

Tom's whole body was tense with eagerness. "Oh, sir, we're doin' that. Mary and me, I'm gon' to night school and Mary helps me, too. Mary's my sister."

"And ma?" asked the man.

"Oh, ma, well, there's her eyes, you know, sir."

"Ah, yes, her eyes," the old man repeated.

"What do you want most, Tom?"

"Don't you know, Tom?"

"No, yer hon—sir, I mean. It ain't time fer 'nother raise yet, 'n' Mary can't go to college cause she's got another year at high school."

"And your mother, Tom?"

"And ma's gonna git her eyes fixed as soon's I save enough money." Tom smiled confidently at the man. "Nope, I don't know. Unless . . ."

"Unless what, Tom?"

"A goose, sir."

"A goose."

"Yep, like at the old place that ma tells about."

"A Christmas goose, stuffed, sir."

The wealthiest man smiled kindly. "There shall be a stuffed goose, if—"

"Yes, yer honor." Tom in his anxiety forgot the "sir."

"If I can help eat it. I'm goose hungry, too."

"You hungry, sir?" Tom expressed unconditioned doubt.

"Oh, yes, and Tom, my family died this morning—all the family I had. Old Scout, I called him, and he was the finest dog a man ever had."

The boy nodded seriously.

"I haven't any Ma, nor any mother with big soft eyes, Tom."

"Ain't youse got nobody?"

"Nobody at all, Tom."

"Gee!" the boy looked at the man with feeling. "Gee!"

"Gee!" repeated the wealthiest man.

Tom laughed readily. "Say, I guess you do need somethin'." He moved closer to the man. "Say, if youse come home with me after work and see ma she'll help you, honest she will."

"How will she help me, Tom?"

"Well," he edged nearer and whispered confidentially: "Mary, you know, hadn't anybody, and so we jest took her in—we adopted her." The boy paused, thinking. "Maybe, yer—sir, I mean, if youse wanted to, and if you tell ma, we could jest adopt you, too."

The old man turned his face away from the boy. "Could you afford to keep another, Tom?" His voice was husky.

Tom answered readily. "Yep, I think so. You see, I could work nights again like I used to, and—"

"And give up night school?"

"Yep, jest fer now, you know, and youse could help with the goose money, we'd let that go fer now—fifty-fifty, you know."

"All right, sir." The wealthiest man held a trembling hand to his freckled face. "Fifty-fifty."

"What'd you call me, Tom after? I don't like 'sir' and 'your honor,' either one of them—they're too mighty sound."

Tom's brows knit again in deep perplexity.

"Let's go home and tell ma. Old Scout, he—"

Yes, the task that is given to each man no other can do. So the errand is waiting; it has waited for ages for you; And now you appear and the Hushed Ones are turning their gaze To see what you do with your chance in the chamber of days.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE INVALID.

For the invalid only easily digested food should be chosen and it should be prepared in a way which will not detract from its digestibility. Since foods to become assimilated, must be softened and made liquid.

Liquid foods will digest with less difficulty and in cases of severe illness are always prescribed by the physician. Broths, gruels, milk, fruit juices and cream soups are included in a liquid diet.

In serving a tray for an invalid one should avoid serving too many things at once. It is a pleasure to have the food served in courses when it can be done without too great a burden to the caretaker. After the meal is over the tray and all food should be removed at once.

Malted Milk Cocoa.—Mix one tablespoonful of malted milk powder with one teaspoonful of cocoa and three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water. Sweeten to taste, stirring well. Boil three minutes. Serve hot.

Egg Nests.—Toast a circular piece of bread; butter and place on a hot plate. Beat the white of an egg until stiff, heap on the toast and drop the egg unbroken in the center; season with butter, salt and pepper, if used. Set in a moderate oven until the white is firm.

Potato Baked in the Half Shell.—Bake a good-shaped potato and scoop out the inside. Season well and return to the shell, brush over the top with the beaten white of egg or milk and brown slightly. If cheese can be eaten a sprinkling of grated cheese may be added to the potato for flavor.

Egg Lemonade.—Beat one egg, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one cupful of cold water. Add the water gradually, stirring until smooth and well mixed. Strain and serve. Egg-nog is made in the same way as the lemonade, adding a grating of nutmeg, a bit of vanilla or fruit juice and milk in place of the lemon and water.

LESSON FOR MARCH 13

THE LAST PASSOVER.

LESSON TEXT—Matt 2:14-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—As often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come.—1 Cor 11:26.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 14:17-28; Luke 22:23, John 13:1-20, 1 Cor. 10:16, 17; 11:23-24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus at Supper With His Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Remembering Our Lord Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord's Supper and Its Meaning.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Communion With Christ.

I. The Bargain of Betrayal (vv. 14-16).

This is a dark picture. Satan had so completely gained the mastery over Judas that he sold his Lord for the price of a slave (Ex. 21:32). Judas' sin was not of a sort that one would suddenly be overtaken with, but one of deliberate purpose.

II. The Passover Prepared (vv. 17-19).

1. The disciples' inquiry (v. 17). They inquired of Jesus as to where they should prepare for the Passover. They were no doubt anxious to be of service to Him. We should be not only ready to do our Lord's bidding, but should inquire of Him as to what He would have us do.

2. The Master's strange directions (v. 18). They were to go into the city where they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water. It was usual for the women to carry the water. This unusual occurrence would make it easier for them to find the man. To him they were to say, "Where is the guest-chamber where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?" "And he will show you a large upper room furnished and prepared, there make ready for us" (Mark 14:14, 15).

3. The obedience of the disciples. They did as Jesus had appointed them. They did not stop to question the sanity of the command, but like true disciples obeyed. Christ is omniscient. He knew just how the matter would turn out.

III. The Betrayal Announced (vv. 20-25).

1. The time of (vv. 20, 21). It was while they were eating the last passover that Jesus made this announcement. Perhaps the reason why this feast should be disturbed by such a sad announcement was that Judas might be given an opportunity at this last moment to repent. God does not will that any should perish, but holds out to the most wicked man to the last moment an opportunity to repent.

2. The sorrowful question (v. 22). They did not seem to suspect one another, but directed personal attention to themselves. We should always examine ourselves rather than others.

3. The darkness of the crime (v. 23). "He that dipeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me," does not point out the traitor, but indicates the greatness of the crime.

4. The betrayal of Jesus was by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God (v. 24; Acts 2:23). Nothing takes place by chance. "Woe unto the man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed, it had been good for that man if he had not been born." To have been born in the world and lived for a while, leaving an impression upon it for good is a great privilege but to be false to face with such a great privilege as Judas Iscariot, and to make such a miserable failure of it is worse than nonexistence.

5. Judas' evil determination announced (v. 25). "In the face of all that Christ had said, he went forward and tried to cover up his purpose by saying, 'Master, is it I?'"

IV. The Feast of the New Covenant (vv. 25-30).

This took place at the close of the passover supper.

1. The bread a symbol of Christ's body (v. 26). This is a fitting emblem of Christ's body. As bread nourishes and strengthens our bodies, so Christ is food to our spiritual lives. Unless we feed upon Him, we shall perish.

2. The cup a symbol of Christ's blood (vv. 27, 28). This was symbolic of the atonement which was made by the shedding of His blood on the cross.

3. Drinking anew in the kingdom (v. 29). This does not mean that in heaven this service will be renewed, but that this was symbolic of the heavenly reality.

4. Going to the cross with a song (v. 30). With all the sorrows and the burdens of the world upon Him. He pressed forward with cheerfulness. Those who have come under the shadow of His blood can go forward bearing their cross with a song of joy.

Religion. Religion is not a lot of things that a man does, but a new life that he lives; not a thing for weak souls but a thing for the manliest soul.—Phillips Brooks

REPARATIONS—AND POLITICS.

The responsibility of the United States Senate for the failure of the Allies and the Germans to reach an agreement on the question of reparations is direct and inescapable. So, likewise, is the responsibility of the Senate for the consequences of that failure.

Mr. Briand, the French Premier, states an incontestable fact when he says that "if America had been alongside the British and French we would have had no trouble." To begin with, the reparations programme would have been a saner programme, and the assurance of American guarantees in the enforcement of the treaty would have brought about a saner state of public opinion in France.

Mr. Briand thinks that "the German delegates unquestionably hoped for encouragement from President Harding's inaugural speech." They had a more substantial basis for encouragement than that; namely, the record of the Republican Party in Congress in defeating the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, in adopting the Knox resolution for a separate peace which President Wilson vetoed, and in the preparations that the leaders are now making, with Mr. Harding's consent and co-operation, to re-enact that separate peace resolution together with Mr. Harding's campaign pledge to withdraw the American troops from the occupied area.

The Germans would have been considerably less than human if they had not capitalized to the fullest extent this American desertion of the Allied cause. The prospect of a separate peace with the United States strengthens their position in all controversies in regard to the Treaty of Versailles.

Whether anything has been gained by the tactics adopted by the Allies is quite another matter. Politically there are advantages on both sides. By accepting the French programme, Lloyd George gave a new lease of life to the Briand-Ministry, but at the same time the Germans themselves are driven into closer unity by the new occupation. The political dividends of the Ebert Government are quite as large as those of Mr. Briand, and the main question of reparations is left where it was.

What the Allies are after is money, and sending troops across the line will not bring a single mark into their coffers, nor does it make their original reparations plan the more workable. No country can be sold into economic slavery for forty-two years, and that was the fundamental mistake that the Allies made. If the Germans refused to take this programme seriously as Lloyd George complains, it can be said that nobody else took it seriously except as an exploit in opportunist politics.

The whole issue has been complicated by politics—first by American politics, then by French politics and German politics and British politics, and no economic problems are even solved by politics. The Allies are having their revenge, but revenge pays no taxes and it restores no devastated areas. By quietly submitting to the occupation the Germans recognize the fact that time plays into their hands. What they could not gain in one way they are gaining in another, and the real issue remains where it was taken from the economists and transferred to the politicians.

Could Not Do Anything at Times

Altoona, Pa.—"For several years I suffered at times and was run-down and extremely nervous. There would be several days each month that I could not do anything. Finally I decided to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one bottle was all it was necessary for me to take to entirely relieve me of this condition, and I have had no trouble of the kind since."—MRS. T. E. DALL, 612 E. 21st Street, Altoona, Pa. Druggists sell the Prescription.

The difference between a fort and a fortress is that a fortress is feminine and so named because nobody knows how to take it.
